Angel Seeking Post of Judge

Wayland C. Angel, Randall County farmer for the past 19 years, has announced his candidacy for the position of Randall County judge, subject to action of the Democratic primary.

If elected Angel promises full-time operation of an honest county judge's office. He said:

"It seems that the time has come for all of us to help our county government.

"I have never before sought public office, but I think this is a position for which I have the right qualifications and the right attitudes.

"My farming operation is now so organized that I can devote full time to the duties of county judge. For the next two years—the length of the unexpired term—maybe there should be a little overtime spent on the office; if necessary, I'll give that too."

Born and reared at Groom, Angel has lived on a farm which he owns four miles north and one mile east of Canyon for the past 19 years.

He has served on the Agricultural Stabilization Committee, the Water Conservation Board, and the board of directors of Consumers Elevator.

"Having lived in both town and country, I believe that I understand the problems of the city voter as well as the rural voter. I can promise that I will give impartial service to the interests of both," Angel said.

The Angels' three children — Mary, 11, Clifford, 9, and Kenny, 7 — attend Canyon school. They are members of the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

"I wish I could see each voter in Randall County before May 7, but the late filing date gives me less than a month to visit with the voters. Therefore, I will be grateful for any support that those whom I do not meet can give me."

Past Master's Night Set by Canyon Masons

Canyon City Lodge No. 730 will hold a Past Master's night Thursday at the lodge hall, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

In ceremonies at the lodge, W. J. "Bill" Flesher, recently-appointed county judge, will be presented a 50-year service award.

Absentee Voting To Begin Monday

Absentee voting for the first Democratic primary begins next Monday as the time for the May 7 election draws near.

Meanwhile, four persons entered the race for county judge during the special filing period set by the county Democratic Executive Committee.

The committee met Tuesday night as the candidates drew lots for the order in which their names will appear on the ballot.

Getting the No. 1 spot was Carroll Brown, Amarillo attorney; Jack Haimes, an Amarilloan who operates a drug store in Canyon, will be listed second; Wayland C. Angel, Randall County farmer, will be listed third, and Elmer Burnett, an Amarillo appliance salesman, will be last on the ballot.

The first political rally of the year has been called for April 22 at the community center in Jowell, it was announced this week.

Mrs. Earl Davis of Jowell said the rally will be sponsored by the Jowell Home Demonstration Club, and all candidates are invited to the meeting to give their platform to the voters.

The Jowell HDC will sell homemade cake and ice cream at the rally, Mrs. Davis said.

All four of the candidates filed for the county judge's office before April 7 and paid the $405 filing fee before midnight Monday.

The post of county judge was vacated April 1 by Roy Joe Stevens, who resigned because of the unfavorable publicity given him by the televised proceedings of the House General Investigations Committee in Amarillo in late March.

County commissioners appointed W. J. "Bill" Flesher to the vacated post last week. Flesher said in accepting the appointment that he would resign as soon as the voters indicated their choice of a new judge.

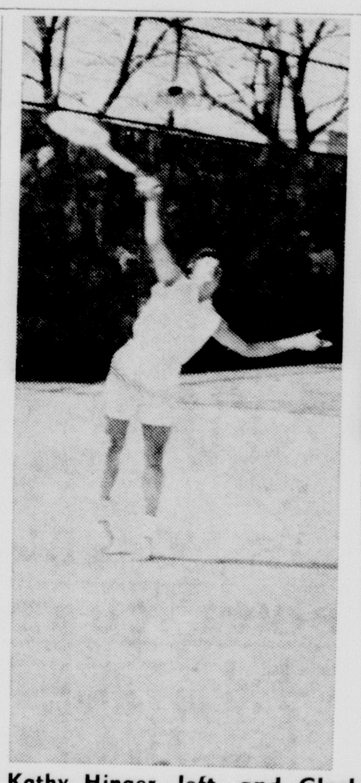
Year's Holidays Are Announced

Recommended holidays for 1960 were announced this week by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce's Retail Merchants Committee.

The holidays recommended by the Retail Merchants Committee include Monday, May 30, in observance of Memorial Day; Monday, July 4, in observance of Independence Day; Monday, September 5, in observance of Labor Day; Thursday, November 24, in observance of Thanksgiving Day; Monday, December 26, in observance of Christmas, and Monday, January 2, 1961, in observance of New Year's Day.

Members of the committee said, however, that it is left to the discretion of the individual merchant whether or not his store is closed on any of the days.

November 5, the day set for homecoming at West Texas State College, was not recommended by the committee.



Kathy Hinger, left, and Clark de Schweinitz display the serving form which carried both of them to the finals of the district Interscholastic League meet held in Canyon last Saturday. Clark will advance to the regional tourney in Lubbock after winning the boys singles division. Kathy dropped a close set in the finals to place second in girls singles.

CHS Entries Sweep District ISL Meet

Canyon High School trounced the other members of District 1-AA in the Interscholastic League Literary and tennis meets held here last Saturday, but the Eagle track and field entries didn't fare so well at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

News Gets Gift On Its Birthday

The Canyon News was presented a birthday present last Saturday by the Panhandle Press Association at the group's Awards Breakfast.

The News, in competition with other Panhandle weekly newspapers with circulations of more than 1,500, was named third place in general excellence at the annual awards presentation breakfast.

The award came on the News' 64th birthday anniversary.

Mrs. R. W. Morgan founded the newspaper in 1896, and it has been in continuous publication since that time. It was published by Clyde W. Warwick from August 1, 1910, to August 1, 1955.

A. C. Haley, Jr., publisher since 1955, accepted the award Saturday for the newspaper.

Reality Added To CD Meeting

Stark reality was added to a civil defense and disaster committee meeting Tuesday night as tornadoes and severe weather skipped over the Panhandle countryside.

Tornado warnings were out for this section of the Panhandle as the group discussed emergency measures for coping with a tornado disaster.

Light hail and severe thundershowers pelted the fire station as the meeting progressed. However, Fire Chief Bill Sternenberg, who had charge of the meeting, dismissed the group soon after learning that the tornado had struck the Sunnyside community, about 40 miles from Canyon.

Sternenberg and Fireman Charley Foster later were dispatched to Sunnyside by the Department of Public Safety to help provide lights for the rescue work in the community, where at least three were killed and more than 30 injured.

The hail and showers left nearly three inches of moisture here as many streets ran curb deep in run-off water for a while Tuesday night.

Another meeting has been called for next Monday night, when the organization of a civil defense and disaster committee will be outlined and duties delegated to members.

Spring's here. And if you don't believe it, just take a look at the swimming pool at Conner Park, where workmen last week put in a new bottom for the pool to stop the leaks. All the pool needs now to be in tip-top shape, according to City Manager Herschell Stevens, is for a new boiler to be installed to heat the water.

Holding Our Own, Only

During 1959, one of the most intensive traffic safety campaigns of all times was conducted in Texas by the governor's office.

In the past few weeks the results of that campaign have become evident: Texans evidently just don't cotton to safety campaigns.

The final count for 1959 showed 2,453 persons killed in 340,158 traffic accidents during the year—an increase of five percent in traffic deaths over 1958.

There were 111 more Texans who lost their lives in 1959 than in 1958, the Texas Department of Public Safety figures reveal.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the DPS, said that Texans held their own during the year. Garrison said, "Driving increased five percent, thus the death rate—the number of deaths per hundred-million miles of driving—remained the same as in 1958, 5.3."

This means that 5.3 people were killed for every 100,000,000 miles driven on the state's highways.

Almost as apalling as the number of deaths was the estimated economic loss resulting from traffic accidents during the year.

Traffic accidents in Texas during 1959 cost $382,781,000—a new high for losses—while natives and thousands of visitors were driving more than 46 billion miles—an all-time high for travel.

In a leaflet accompanying the statistical information, the Statistical Services Division of the DPS related the cost of traffic accidents in this way:

"The playing area of a football field measures 300 feet by 160 feet.

"United States currency measures about 2⅝ inches by 6⅛ inches.

"If a football field was completely covered with one dollar bills, then a layer of two dollar bills, then a layer of five dollar bills, then a layer of ten dollar bills, then a layer of twenty dollar bills, then a layer of five hundred dollar bills—now on top of these eight layers of paper money, dump 2,529 tons of silver dollars and the money on that football field would represent the economic loss we suffered in Texas for the year 1959.

"The $381,781,000 estimated loss for this one year would buy

"10,000 homes at $20,000 each
"10,000 refrigerators at $400 each
"10,000 electric ranges at $350 each
"10,000 TV sets at $350 each
"10,000 dishwashers at $300 each
"10,000 automobiles at $3,000 each
"10,000 central air conditioning units at $1,400 each and furnish the head of each of the 10,000 households with a bank account of $12,378."

Needless to say that's one heck of a lot of money.

And there's nothing any editorial writer can say that would better illustrate the needless waste on our highways.

Thank Heaven

Thank heaven for the day WT will have enough tennis courts for the college students as well as the Canyon school children who flock to the courts every day!

Over the weekend there is very little for college students to do that doesn't cost money and one of the favorite inexpensive pastimes is tennis.

But how disheartening it is to find the courts filled with children who neither enjoy the game nor know anything about it. For hours eager WT students wait and watch as the younger set gaily attempts to bounce the ball over the net. Some use the courts for skating, bike riding, or bunnyhopping.

If these children paid to use the courts for their various and sundry activities, perhaps there wouldn't be so much resentment on the part of the college students who do pay to use the courts and can't!

Most WT students realize that the Canyon High School students deserve to improve their tennis game and most WT students are willing to share the courts with anyone who takes the game seriously (at least seriously enough to want to learn how to play.) But when it comes to sharing the courts with children in grade school, that is asking a little too much!

How can the problem be solved? The only logical solution is that the Canyon public schools provide their students with their own courts. Until this is done there is little that can be done about overpopulated courts.

A suggestion is that the grade school children not be permitted to use the campus tennis courts, which would alleviate the problem to some extent. Such a step might be difficult to enforce and harsh, but something should be done about making the tennis courts available for the students who pay to use them!

What Our Neighbors Say . . .

Scissor Snippings

Bascom Nelson in the Castro County News: Despite the fact that a bond election has never failed to carry in Dimmitt, it came as a mild surprise to us to see the new city hall election pass Tuesday.

Many of the people we talked to were definitely against the idea so we had begun to give up hope. The main reason given was that the planned city hall would cost too much. Virtually everyone agreed that more space was needed, but that it ought to be gained by building on.

It all boiled down to a lot of people not wanting their taxes increased—at least not so much.

We would have liked for the proposition to carry by a greater majority. However, the two-vote margain was sufficient and Dimmitt will have its new city hall.

One thing is heartening though—it was the best turn-out in years, if ever. The public was pretty well informed on the issue. It's a lot better to have a bond issue carry or be voted down by heavy voting.

The vote would indicate to us that the city generally is solidly behind the commission in seeking a new city hall. It has been our observation in the past that people who are against something will go to greater lengths to vote against an issue than those who favor it. Therefore it is quite reasonable that as many as three-fourths of the people against the issue voted while we doubt if one-half of those favoring it took the trouble to go to the polls. This was the reasoning most interested persons took in explaining the failure of the hospital bond election several years ago. Consequently it would appear that most of the tax-paying voters think we need a new city hall and are willing to pay for it.

1960 is apt to be a year of bond elections. In the offing soon will be another county hospital bond election and a Dimmitt Independent School District bond election for a new high school.

It is unfortunate that these three bond elections should fall so near one another, but necessity is no respecter of time or place.

Persons living on a small income may see these elections only as another inevitable encroachment on their meager resources and they may encourage defeat of the elections. These people have a reason and power to them.

But there are others who vote down bond elections they can feel it is one way they can make their voice heard on the tax question. They want as few taxes and as few government services as possible. Another person may feel stronger a community obligator or more pride in his surroundings and vote for a bond election although he may have meager resources. These are differences in philosophies and by no means are the only reasons people vote for or against bond issues, but we think they are the most often encountered reasons.

We will encourage passage of these next two bond elections also. For the most part the people pushing these motions are an average cross section of the population. They just realize the need better than those who are indifferent. For instance, there were surely people who strongly encouraged the passage of the hospital bond election who voted against the city hall measure. Nobody approves bond elections just because they like to approve things. They have to have a reason and it is our conviction that if every voter took the trouble to really study the situation as it exists now and as it will exist in the future there would be no trouble whatsoever in passing a hospital or school bond election. Usually public leaders wait until the past possible time before calling bond elections and they try to make do with what they have so long as it is practical.

The poll taxes paid this year in Castro County will be well used before next January. One of the greatest rights in this country is the right to vote. That doesn't mean vote against just because the right exists, either. If history is any criteria, it is a tremendous privilege to be able to vote into being public improvements without having the decision made for us by some bureaucrat or dictator.

Hop Graham, Jr., in the State Line Tribune: I hate to say it, but it looks to me like men are going to have to start carrying handbags if the clothing stylists don't calm down. They've made our britches so tight we can't put anything in the pockets anymore, and now they've just about quit making two-pocket shirts.

Lately I've switched to carrying all of my assorted junk in my shirt pockets, but I notice that the new style for shirts is for just one pocket, so I guess my days are numbered on this alternative.

Dress shirts have always (I guess) had only one pocket, on the left side. But when I wear a dress shirt I usually have a coat, to go along, so there's plenty of pockets.

However, short sleeved sport shirts are my stock in trade, and some I was looking at the other day have made me face up to the fact that two-pocket numbers are for squares, man.

The modern thing is to have a pocket, like usual, on the left side, and then where the pocket is supposed to be on the right to have some fancy embroidery, emblems, holes, or do-dads.

With one of these shirts, I would stuff so much junk in the one pocket that I am sure I would walk lopsided. I'm being forced toward a handbag, briefcase, paper sack or something.

Judge Pittman was Henry George Man All the Way, Even if by Car

By BOYCE HOUSE

There never was another judge exactly like A. B. Pittman of Memphis, Tenn. A man of broad sympathies, especially for the underdog, he was endowed with fairness, learning, and a quiet sense of humor. He was one of my boyhood heroes and was instrumental in my getting a tryout as a reporter after graduation from high school.

Another who shares my admiration for the late jurist is a leading attorney of Memphis, Abe D. Waldauer. Like Judge Pittman, Waldauer is a believer in the philosophy of the great Henry George, advocate of the single tax (land value taxation).

Recently Waldauer and I had an opportunity to reminisce and he told about the time that a lawyer, —probably then the foremost member of the Memphis bar—asked for a continuance because President Franklin D. Roosevelt had invited him to Washington for an NRA Conference. Judge Pittman told the attorney that he could designate a young lawyer in his office to try the case and overruled the motion.

Waldauer was next and, after seeing what had happened to the distinguished lawyer, it was with diffidence that the young attorney requested a continuance, his reason being that, sometime before, he had accepted an invitation to speak in a Mid-West city under the auspices of the Henry George Foundation. The judge asked, "How do you plan to go?" Waldauer replied, "Your honor, I plan to drive." The judge said, "Continuance granted — and, if invited, I'll go with you."

We take our modern highways for granted, but this was not always the case. Back in the early 1920's, I was making a trip through the hills of Arkansas and I asked a native, "How's the road to Hardy?" He replied, "Rough and rocky — but good."

Any road that you could get over was "good."

This is the season of acute-intoxication-by-the-travel-urge. Gay posters paint a romantic picture of Hawaii. Magazine ads describe life aboard the SS Whatsis. Travel articles relate the breathtaking beauty of the Swiss Alps. Our favorite TV show packs up cast and baggage, to broadcast from Paris, London, or Rome.

We tumble fastest to hard-sell arguments for travel when the sap begins to rise. By April we're ready to hock the family jalopy for just one week in San Salvador! When we're at this stage, we'd best give in to the mania and go on a travel jag. Not travel — just jag.

We did it this week. A travel folder about South America arrived on a windy day, along with the dairy bill, a mail-order catalog, and a soap contest teaser. It was a beautiful three-color job, announcing jauntily, "You're just a wish away from South America!" And on the other side, a delirious jigsaw map of airline routes to all the fabulous centers of South America. We've always been a sucker for maps. Furthermore, it was a pay-later offer, a real pitfall for the never-rich customer.

We traced the imaginary route for a 37-day tour to Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Peru, and home by Panama. An inner eye flicked to our modest savings, earmarked for kitchen repair. Excited by the prospect, we glanced absently at the price: My gosh! Just $145? Right after this fantastic figure, in the finest of print, appeared the sobering word, "down." And underneath that, equally small, "monthly — 77.55." We had to go back to page one to find out that "monthly" meant pay for 20 months!

So? The kitchen gets linoleum. We've had our jag.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS ...UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you —at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

King' Rehearsal In Full Swing

"The King and I," musical drama by Rodgers and Hammerstein, is in full rehearsal at the Fine Arts Building at West Texas State College.

The popular musical played for three years on Broadway and has been shown all over the world as a movie. It will run at the Branding Iron Theatre in the Fine Arts Building May 3 through May 7.

The WT production will star Royal Brantley as the king; Marion Forbau as Anna; Debra Devenport as Lady Thiang; Christine McFarlin as Tuptim, and Bobby Miller as Lun Tha.

Directing the production are William and Margaret Moore and Robert Antrim, while Rowie Durden has charge of musical direction, and Gene Galle of Amarillo Civic Ballet is in charge of choreography.

There will be about 30 Canyon children—aged 5 through 13—who make up the king's royal children. The two lead children's roles will be alternately played by John Brantley, Rob Barnard, George Cox, and Mike Matthis.

Auxiliary President Visits Lockney

Mrs. Cal Stephens, district president of VFW Auxiliary, visited Lockney and filled out application for a new VFW Auxiliary in that city. Fifteen members signed the application.

Johnnie McBroom, District 13 commander of the VFW, and wife, Netty McBroom, and Cal Stephens accompanied Mrs. Stephens.

The VFW had an installation of officers afterward. A barbecue supper was enjoyed by all.

It's impossible to kick all the time and still move forward.

Line Showing Increase of Polio Begins Annual Climb Very Soon

A thin black line on a graphic chart at the State Department of Health soon will begin an inexorable climb upward, getting higher and higher each week as summer progresses, then turning into a slow downward curve in mid-September.

The chart is the department's way of keeping a weekly tally on polio. By referring to charts for previous years, Dr. H. E. Smith can predict when the line will begin its upward swing.

"The last week in April is when polio starts to increase in Texas," says Dr. Smith, chief of the department's preventive medicine section.

526 Cases Tallied

"The line reached its high point during August last year when 145 cases were charted. At the year's end 526 cases had been tallied, a high toll but still a fine testimonial for polio vaccine when contrasted to the 3984 cases during pre-vaccine 1952."

Extending the line each week is a painful chore for statisticians. Each time it advances one square on the chart they mentally hear a physician speaking to someone somewhere in Texas and making his dire diagnosis: "Polio."

That someone thus becomes a statistic, with his name and facts surrounding his illness filling blank spaces on Form No. 68-R5732, the department's cold and impersonal polio case record.

Half Under Five

An analysis of 273 case record forms, completed with a clinical thoroughness during the polio season last year, is a dramatic study in human frailty.

It shows that nine of every 10 cases had had less than the basic three vaccine shots recommended for maximum protection. It shows that three of every four cases had not received a single dose of the vaccine proved effective beyond all expectations.

More than half of last year's victims of paralytic polio were under five years of age, the analysis reveals. And among these youngsters as among other age groups, nine of 10 had not received the recommended three shots.

Climb Begins Soon

Now they're part of a black line on a sheet of graph paper.

"It would only add hurt to injury," says Dr. Smith, "to ask their parents why, in the face of almost daily urgings, they ignored the chance of giving the youngsters an infinitely better chance to escape polio."

In a brief few weeks the thin black line will begin its seasonal climb.

"We hope it won't go as high this year," Dr. Smith says. "But we've got plenty of case record forms on hand, just in case . . . "

Foreign Aid

By Representative Walter Rogers
18th Congressional District

Congress will soon come to grips with an issue that bids to be more controversial this year than at any other time.

It is the bill which will be designed for the purpose of carrying out the request of President Eisenhower for new obligational authority for foreign aid in the amount of $4,175 million.

This is an increase of $949 million over the amount provided for fiscal 1960. The president estimated the expenditures for fiscal year 1961 to be $3,450 million, an increase of $100 million over 1960.

Fund of Many Names

As most of you know, the foreign aid program has traveled under numerous aliases. Most recently, it has been called the Mutual Security Program, and the International Cooperation Administration. There are many arms to the program, having names very similar to the major title.

However, under any name it is an aid program financed by the taxpayers of this country for the purpose of making grants, gifts, and loans to foreign governments. The controversial nature of such a program and the continuing criticism directed at the program through the years has caused many members of Congress to take some long looks at what is going on.

Hence, it would appear that this year the proponents of the foreign aid program will have a much tougher battle in obtaining the passage of a bill appropriating expenditures of an additional $4,175 million of American taxpayers' money for foreign aid purposes. The long look which has been taken by some of the Congressmen has produced some startling facts, which have not yet been fully documented. All of this will be brought out in the debate on the subject matter.

Good Job by Passman

The chairman of the Foreign Operations Subcommittee on Appropriations is Congressman Otto E. Passman of Louisiana. He has certainly done an outstanding job in the past in cutting down the requests which come to Congress for these foreign aid appropriations. He has done a magnificent job in trying to dig out much of the fat in these programs and will no doubt produce a lot of good results this year.

He has just furnished me with a schedule of mutual security funds, by program and amount, available for expenditure during fiscal year 1960. That is, funds which are presently in the so-called foreign aid pipeline.

Unexpended funds on June 30, 1959, amounted to $4,837,708,750. New funds appropriated for fiscal 1960 amounted to $3,225,813,000. New funds from other sources available for fiscal 1960 amounted to $48 million. Therefore, the total amount available for fiscal year 1960, which ends on June 30, 1960, was $8,111,521,750.

Asking for More

Notwithstanding that this amount was available, foreign aid advocates have come back to Congress this year for $4,175 million additional. Mr. Passman has very kindly furnished the members of Congress with a breakdown of the fund which were available for fiscal year 1960 and has pointed out the vast amount of work which must be done by the subcommittee this year in view of the request for additional funds.

He especially points out that the subcommittee is being subjected to tremendous pressure and propaganda from many quarters, especially from the 43,000 employees and 10,000 trainees of the Mutual Security Program, who are scattered in 76 nations of the world.

He also points out that much pressure is coming from the White House and its prestige, the State Department and its prestige, the Defense Department and its power, and scores of large manufacturers who make big profits from the foreign aid program; also, many colleges and universities and literally hundreds of other organizations hoping to participate in this $12 billion-plus pork barrel.

Resisting Pressures

He reassures Congress, however, that the subcommittee will continue to resist the unwarranted propaganda and pressure for excessive amounts for foreign aid and will try to provide only funds based upon actual need and not on desire. Congressman Passman and his subcommittee are entitled to the plaudits of all American taxpayers for their tireless work in trying to protect the American tax money. They are doing a good job.

The comptroller general of the United States has been quoted as stating that the weakness of the program is too much money, not too little.

In any event, you can look for some political fireworks when this bill comes up this year.

RUDE AWAKENING

The world seems cold-hearted only to the man who tries to live on its generosity.

This is a black and white reproduction of the four-cent water conservation stamp that goes on sale April 19 at the post office here. The stamp, printed in three colors, goes on sale Monday in Washington, D. C., at the Seventh National Watershed Congress.

The unique two-part stamp portrays a close-up view of a drop of water falling from a leaf, which symbolizes the influences of land and vegetation upon water supply.

This design leads the eye into a right-hand panel depicting an actual small watershed panorama. People and industries in the town in the foreground are dependent for their water upon the watershed above, which ideally includes conservation-managed farm and forest lands and small dams for flood prevention and water storage.

Plant Exchange Held At Palo Duro Club

Mrs. Rae Walters was the hostess to the Palo Duro Mother-in-Law Club Friday afternoon. Devotional was given by Mrs. Leonard Winters on the "Highway Prayer."

Helen Fain was in charge of the business session. A plant exchange among the members and a crazy dress parade were features of the day.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. J. L. Hilgenfeld, Mrs. Fain, Mrs. Jeannette Robbins, Mrs. Fred Marshall, Mrs. Mae Johnson, Mrs. George Barker, Mrs. J. P. Hammons, Mrs. Gladys Haines, and Mrs. Walters.

The next meeting will be May 13 with Mrs. Fred Marshall. Each member is asked to bring a guest and a May basket for the member and the guest.

Noblitt to Talk To Canyon Lions

Ray Noblitt, prominent Clarendon businessman recently retired and well-known authority on Cal Farley's famous Boys Ranch near Amarillo, will be guest speaker at the noon luncheon meeting of the Canyon Lions Club this week.

Noblitt will speak to the Lions on Wednesday, bringing to the members the colorful story of the nationally recognized work with homeless and delinquent boys being done at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Having been associated with Boys Ranch founder and president, Cal Farley, for nearly 35 years and having worked with Farley for 11 years before, during and after the founding of the ranch, Noblitt is experienced and well qualified on his subject.

As one of the ranch's oldest continuous boosters and contributors, Noblitt is now realizing a desire of long standing by bringing the Boys Ranch story to civic clubs and other organizations in this area.

His recent retirement from operating his own business has given him the opportunity to give his services on behalf of the 261 boys who now call Boys Ranch their home, 188 of whom are from Texas with three of them from Canyon.

At his own request, Noblitt is serving without pay and because he has kept pace with the ranch growth and program over the years he is probably one of the best informed laymen in this type of work.

Noblitt is an unusually interesting speaker with an unusually interesting subject that covers a wide range. But when speaking, he prefers to classify his talk with the deceptively simple title of, "Giving Boys A Shirttail To Hang To."

Program Told To Improve Mail

Postmaster Marion Higdon this week announced plans for a mail improvement program for the Amarillo-Lubbock area, in which Canyon will participate.

The postmaster urged residents to post their mail as early in the day as possible so that the postal clerks will have longer to process it.

He said that any mail posted before 5:45 p.m. can usually be delivered the next day if the destination is within 150 miles.

Postmaster Higdon also announced plans to close the lobby of the post office at 3 p.m. on Sundays to cut down on the weekend work at the post office.

Mail should be deposited in the outside drops after 3 p.m., where a star route truck will pick it up at 9 p.m. and take it to Amarillo. The mail will be dispatched from Amarillo.

Beginning this Sunday, an extra box will be placed outside the post office alongside the one now in use. One of the boxes will be for local mail, while the other will be for out-of-town mail.

This will increase the speed with which the mail can be dispatched, Higdon said.

Garden Club to Meet Thursday Evening

The Garden Club will meet in the film room of the library at West Texas State College on April 14 at 7:30.

Miss Darthula Walker will direct the program on annuals.

Teenage Art Slated Soon

The Teenage Art Exhibit of the Canyon Public Schools will open with a tea on April 24 in the library at West Texas State College.

The public is invited to attend the exhibit which will run through the week.

Hill Heads Group Studying Old Age

Appointment of J. A. Hill of Canyon to serve as Randall County chairman on the Governor's Committee, White House Conference on Aging, was announced in Austin this week jointly by Governor Price Daniel and State Senator Crawford C. Martin of Hillsboro, steering committee chairman.

Work on the state level will be directed by a steering committee of nine prominent Texans associated with agencies concerned with problems of the aged, and an advisory body of some 150 Texas citizens.

Senator Martin said county chairmen will be responsible for forming county organizations to gather information and make recommendations on the aging problem at the community and county levels.

He said that grassroots studies are necessary to ascertain the extent of income, employment, health, housing, and other needs of the ever-increasing number of older people in Texas and throughout the country.

The Texas study, as well as those in other states, is being made by authority of a 1958 act of Congress. The act calls for a White House Conference on Aging to be held in Washington in January, 1961, as well as for local surveys and for state conferences in advance of the Washington meeting.

The announced goals of the project — nationwide, statewide, and on the local level — he said, are several:

1. To motivate members of interested organizations to work together in solving common problems of older people.

2. To encourage organizations to study their own work and determine how the needs of the aging and aged can be met more effectively.

3. To correlate public and private services to aging in many fields, including counseling on family relationships, jobs and retraining opportunities, compulsory retirement, health services, housing, nursing homes, and recreational programs.

4. To find ways to help older people continue to grow mentally and spiritually.

5. To examine public programs for the aged and determine whether revisions or alterations are needed.

Senator Martin said the county chairmen are free to determine ways and methods of studying the resources and needs of the senior citizens in their communities, and that announcement of local plans would be made soon.

He urged people interested in the project — especially lay persons and those directly concerned, the aged themselves — to contact their county chairmen for details of the study.

Club Preferences For Center Topic of Thursday Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Community Center Planning Council will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the commissioners' courtroom of the courthouse, Jean Loudder, council secretary, announced.

Purpose of the meeting will be to determine how many organizations want the Young Men's Christian Association program proposed last month.

Club representatives to the council were to have checked with their clubs during the past month to see whether the membership preferred for Canyon to start a community center program without any outside help or to subscribe to the YMCA program.

WARREN'S

Spread of Wheat Leaf Fungus Seen

COLLEGE STATION — Speckled leaf blotch, a fungus disease which attacks the leaves of wheat, is now common from Central Texas northward and westward through the Panhandle, reports Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist for Texas A&M.

The disease shows first as pale green to yellow, oily-appearing spots on the leaf of the diseased wheat plant. The spot, says Smith, enlarge and become brown and then ashen-gray in color. Tiny, pin-point, black dots or fruiting bodies of the fungus can be seen in the leaf spots. Entire leaves are killed by the fungus, thus reducing its forage value for grazing and curtailing the functions performed by the leaves.

Smith said the disease could live through freezing weather and despite the extreme cold of recent weeks had continued to spread. The last serious epidemic of the disease occurred during 1957.

No cure is known for the disease. Exact information is lacking concerning the resistance of wheat varieties to the disease, Smith said. Observations, however, have revealed that Crockett and Mediterranean show resistance and Ponca and Quanah have considerable tolerance to the disease. Westar and Triumph, on the other hand, are known to be susceptible.

Seed treatment with organic mercury fungicides will prevent the fungus from being carried on seed wheat. Growing wheat in a two or three-year rotation will help starve out the fungus carried over in old straw. Smith advises that old straw be plowed under deep if wheat follows wheat in rotation. Destroying volunteer wheat will also help prevent carry-over of the disease, according to the pathologist.
